

Plants That May be Harmful to Pets

The consumption of any plant material has the potential to cause pets to vomit and experience gastrointestinal upset. Consuming certain plants may be life threatening. This list, while not all-inclusive, contains commonly encountered plants that have been identified by the ASPCA or Humane Society to cause upset or be harmful if ingested.

Allium cepa - Onion	Ilex spp. - Holly
Alocasia (various)	Ipomoea purpurea – Morning Glory
Aloe barbadensis - Aloe Vera	Iris
Amaryllis	Laburnum – Golden Chain Tree
Araceae – Philodendron (various)	Lantana – Lantana
Andromeda japonica - Pieris	Laurus nobilis – Bay Laurel
Begonia spp.	Ligustrum vulgare – Common privet
Brugmansia – Angel’s Trumpet	Lilium – Lily (various)
Buxus spp. - Boxwood	Lobelia cardinalis – Cardinal Flower
Caladium – Elephant Ear	Lupinus – Lupines
Christmas Trees (various)	Nandina domestica – Heavenly Bamboo
Clematis spp.	Narcissus – Daffodils (bulb only)
Codiaeum variegatum - Croton	Solanaceae – Nightshades (potato, tomato, etc)
Colocasia – Elephant Ear	Nerium - Oleander
Crassula argentea - Jade	Phoradendron - Mistletoe
Cycas revoluta – Sago Palm	Quercus – Oaks (various)
Daphne odora – Winter Daphne	Rhododendron spp. – Azalea & Rhododendron
Datura – Devil’s Trumpet	Rheum – Rhubarb (leaves)
Dieffenbachia (various)	Sansevieria – Snake Plant
Digitalis - Foxglove	Schefflera
Dracaena fragrans – Corn Plant	Schlumbergera – Christmas Cacti (various)
Euonymus alatus – Burning Bush	Scindapsus – Pothos (various)
Euphorbia marginata - Snow on the Mountain	Spathiphyllum – Peace Lily
Euphorbia plucherrima - Poinsettia	Syngonium podophyllum - Nephthytis
Ficus benjamina – Fig (various)	Taxus – Yew (various)
Hedera helix – English Ivy	Tulipa – Tulip (bulb only)
Hellebores	Wisteria
Hyacinth – Hyacinth (bulb only)

We encourage you to contact your local veterinarian or the ASPCA’s Animal Poison Control Center 24-hour emergency hotline at (888-426-4435) if you believe your pet has ingested a potentially dangerous plant.